

Stewart County

Extension collaborated with community partners to design and establish a teaching kitchen at the community center. Extension, Family Connections and Stewart County have obtained over $18,000 in grants to invest in this project. This partnership is providing increased resources for Stewart County. The kitchen serves as a place to teach families how to plan and prepare nutritious meals through hands-on learning. Another component of this collaboration is the community garden. Extension Ag, 4-H and Family and Consumer Sciences are involved in planting, maintaining and harvesting produce to be used in nutrition education at the Community Center.

A healthy Georgia is a better Georgia.

University of Georgia Cooperative Extension offers programming focused on mental health, financial well-being, nutrition and everything in between. UGA Extension had 1,808,305 face-to-face contacts in 2023. Of these, 170,771 contacts addressed health and wellness topics, including rural and farm stress.

Extension is committed to helping rural Georgia farmers and families thrive. UGA Extension provides physical and mental health resources to keep rural Georgia growing stronger, especially when times are tough. Our new Behavioral Health Team provides fact sheets, trainings and a weekly blog—all to help Georgia individuals and families thrive.

Growing cities.

UGA Extension helps urban gardeners develop school gardens, community gardens and urban farms to benefit their communities. Extension works with educators to create sustainable outdoor classrooms that function as successful teaching tools. Community gardeners are supported in growing healthy food crops in small spaces while urban farmers are encouraged to apply the latest agricultural research to grow their businesses.

Committed to Georgia's youth.

Georgia's 4-H enrolled 173,505 youths across the state during the 2022-23 school year.

Get the facts.

UGA Extension publications are the go-to source for unbiased, research-based information in the state of Georgia.
